

Life of Joseph Cowen (M. P for Newcastle, 1874-86): With Letters, Extracts from His Speeches, and Verbatim Report of His Last Speech (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Life of Joseph Cowen (M. P for Newcastle, 1874-86): With Letters, Extracts From His Speeches, and Verbatim Report of His Last Speech Cowen the power of stimulating public opinion. It might with equal truth be asserted that few men succeeded better in attracting admirers and securing adherents. One of his most faithful and conscientious admirers is the author of this bio graphy. Possessing the gift of collecting, the means of acquiring, and the habit of methodically arranging whatsoever in the annals of Tyneside he deemed worthy of preservation, Mr. Duncan industriously gathered up all the public utterances of his chief. They range from the fervid advocacy of early days to the great speech on Empire (printed in this volume) with which the City fathers were electrified at a municipal banquet shortly before the orators death. The bursting folios in which these marvellous specimens of eloquence are enshrined form a collection that is, surely, unique.
