

The Design of God: The Nature of Mans Moral Sacredness and Responsibility

Provocative... Bold... Daring!!! An intimate and unapologetic journey through the conscious continuum of the moral being, and the beautiful workmanship of Gods masterpiece, - the human heart. Once in a lifetime, man will see all that is, and marvel with such rich regret and absolute awe. The day he dies. Yet his heartaches tell him the very same things while he is still here and able to see them: without the certainty of impossible repeat. Vigorous appreciation of such things culture deep and honest respects that guide the artists reds and blues across the painted reflections of his hearts passions. Passion, is the slow and careful grace of attention. The firmness of love. The tenderness of the caress. And the stillness of water. So lightly moved by the cool passing of the winds. The most dangerous force in all of existence... Passion, guides the heart into every loving embrace. Into every fallen choice. Into every dismal regret. It also gives us boundless measure. And leads us every way, astray. There is nowhere in the heart that man or woman may hide from their passions. But facing them with care, they may see past them, through them, even with them. And give themselves back to that most precious passion of all: God, in their heart. Passion, can be the end of every man, woman, and child. It can also be the beginning of a lifetime in Eternal embrace. Leading us into the arms of Christ. Our heart calling out... Lord, be mine!
